Militia And Tartars Engaged In An All Day Fight At Balakhan Yesterday.

ONE THOUSAND SHOT DOWN DEAD

Attack On The Military Depot And Provision Camp Leads To A Powerful Carnage In Which Citizens Are Killed.

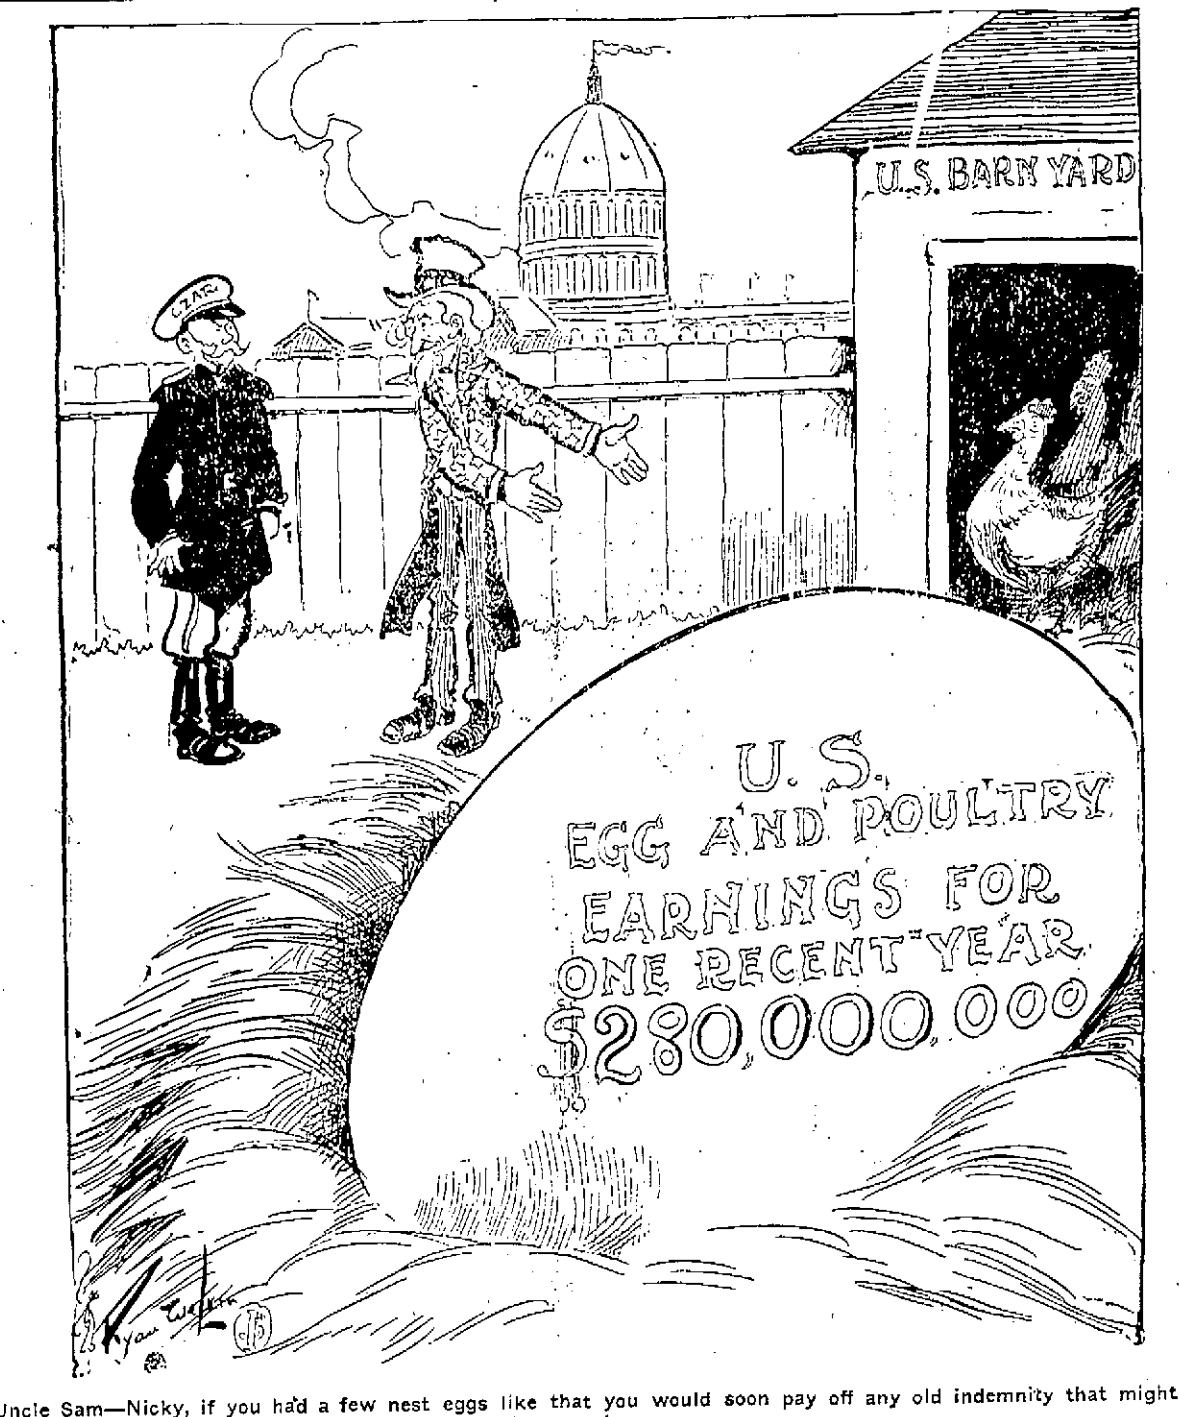

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
St. Petersburg, Sept. 8.—The government has received a dispatch from Balakhan, Caucasus, to the effect that 1,000 were killed or wounded in battles with the troops Thursday. The carnage resulted from an attack made on the military camp and provision depot. Clashes between the Tartar hordes and the militia were kept up from early morning until the streets were littered with dead and dying.
Nearly all the victims are rioters. Two bombs hurled at the troops marching in the streets exploded, killing eight men.
The infantry and artillery responded to the bombs with volley after volley, until every disturber had been killed or wounded.
A large number of workmen barricaded themselves in the Balakhan hospital. The soldiers began the attack with rifle fire and then stormed the hospital and completed their work with the bayonet.
The deplorable condition of affairs in Baku is shown by a telegram from the governor, who has sent an urgent dispatch saying that his troops are surrounded by Tartars and will inevitably be overwhelmed unless immediately relieved.
Revolt Laid to Turkey.
The authorities of the Caucasus would seem to have been taken completely by surprise by the magnitude of the Tartar rising. There is not the least doubt that it had long been planned and carefully organized and is connected with the separatist movement.
The officials at Tiflis say they have unmistakable proof that the revolt has been fanned by Turkish emissaries and agitators bearing a green standard, who are raising the whole country. The Tartars, the officials add, intend laying a regular siege to Baku, Shusha, and other places. They have laid many villages in ruins and have pitilessly massacred the inhabitants.

ROOSEVELT REVIVES MOVE FOR ANOTHER HAGUE CONFERENCE

It Is Believed in Washington That He Will Again Issue Invitations.
Now That Russian-Japanese War Is Ended.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, Sept. 8.—Now that the treaty of peace between Russia and Japan has been completed and signed, it is regarded here as probable that President Roosevelt will make a renewed effort to secure another meeting of the Hague conference, in accordance with his suggestion to the powers last spring. It is thought that the State Department will issue another circular to the nations, who, in reply to the former invitation of President Roosevelt, signified their willingness to send representatives to the conference, but wished to have the matter deferred until the close of the war. President Roosevelt will himself complete the movement he has initiated and it is thought that Secretary Root will soon begin work on the documents, according to Mr. Roosevelt's ideas.

POST ALL NOTICES IN THE POSTOFFICES

Departments of Government Will Be Given Publicity by Central you's New Plan.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, Sept. 8.—Postmaster General Cortelyou will probably issue a statement sometime today or tomorrow announcing the completion of his scheme to co-operate with other branches of the government in giving publicity to public affairs. He believes that more people visit the postoffices than any other public buildings and for this reason thinks that all government notices would gain wider circulation if posted in the post offices of the country. This was tried in the precautionary advice in the fever districts at New Orleans and proved such a success that all government notices in future will receive such advertising.

TEXANS AVENGE NEGRO'S CRIME

Black Man Confesses To Awful Deed And Is Burned To Crisp At Stake.

ASKED TO BE HUNG OR EVEN SHOT

Plea Of Victim Of Mob's Ire Is Ignored, Although Brother And Sister Are Given An Hour To See Him.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 8.—Steve Davis, a negro, who attacked Mrs. S. P. Norris, near Howard Monday, was burned at the stake Thursday night at Italy, Tex.
He was arrested at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon and confessed his crime. A mob of 2,000 farmers took him from the officers and prepared to lynch him.
They gave Davis two hours for prayer and notified all the farmers in the neighborhood that he would be burned at 7 o'clock. At that time the lynching was postponed another hour.
Davis begged piteously not to be burned, but to be hanged or shot. The mob decided to vote on it and the majority voted for burning.
Davis then asked that his sister and brother, eight miles away, be called up on the telephone to bid him goodbye. They pleaded to the mob over the telephone not to kill their brother till they could get to him and see him for the last time. The mob gave them until 8 o'clock to reach Howard and see the condemned man.
Mob Defies the Officers.
The mob was so strong that it did not fear the local officers, and the isolated location of the line of railroad made it comparatively free from molestation by state troops, if any should be ordered out by Governor Denham.
Davis was taken to the Jordan Brown farm, south of Howard, at 7 o'clock. A barn donated by the owner of the farm, was torn down and the lumber used in the execution.
Davis in his confession made while the preparations to burn him at the stake were being made, said:
"I am 21 years old and was born in

PENSION ROLL DROPS BELOW MILLION MARK

Maximum Is Reached on Jan. 21, With 1,004,196 Names, and Goes to Six Figures in May.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The pension roll reached the maximum number in its history on Jan. 21 last, the number being 1,004,196. The roll passed the million mark in September of last year, and gradually increased for the next four months. The decline began with the first of last February, and by the following May had dropped below the million mark.
These facts are developed in a synopsis of the annual report of Pension Commissioner Warner covering the operations of his office for the fiscal year ending June 30 last. At the end of the year the number of pensions had declined to 998,441, a net increase for the year of 3,679.

During the year the bureau issued 185,242 pension certificates, of which number over 50,000 were originals. The annual value of the pension roll on June 30, 1905, was $136,745,295. By the term "annual value" is meant the amount of money required to pay the pensioners then on the roll for one year.
During the year 43,883 pensioners were dropped from the roll by reason of death, and of this number 30,324 were survivors of the civil war. On June 30, 1905, the roll contained the names of 684,508 survivors of the civil war, a decrease of over 6,000 from the previous year.

The total amount disbursed for pensions for the fiscal year was $141,142,861, of which amount $4,197,156 was for navy pensions and $3,409,988 was paid to pensioners of the Spanish war and $133,022,170 to the survivors of the civil war, their widows and dependents.

The total amount paid to Spanish war pensioners since 1899 is $11,936,198. The total amount of money for pensions since the foundation of the government is $3,320,800,022, and of this amount $3,144,355,405 has been paid on account of the civil war.

The total number of claims allowed original and increases, under order No. 78, known as "the age order," since that order went into effect, April 13, 1904, up to June 30, 1905, was 265,612.

ADVENTISTS ARE FINISHING WORK
BUSINESS SESSIONS OF THE GATHERING INTERESTING.
CAMP LIFE IS DELIGHTFUL

Intense Interest Displayed in the Work Being Accomplished by the Conference.

The praise service in the large pavilion at 6 a. m. was conducted by Elder W. S. Shreve of Spring Green, and assisted by Elder G. C. Tenny of Battle Creek, Michigan. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and many were eager to express their thanks to God for his tender mercies to them. It certainly must be a pleasant scene for heaven to look upon.

At the same hour there was also a praise service held in the tent used for Scandinavian meetings, which was led by Elder N. P. Nielsen of Oshkosh, Wisconsin. Those who took part in the meeting greatly rejoiced because of God's goodness to them. The Scandinavian people are very devout worshippers of God. They are honest-hearted people and are valuable members of this denomination.

At six o'clock the young people held their service in the tent used for young people's meetings. It was presided over by Prof. A. W. Hallock of Bethel Academy. The young people's meetings are among the very best of the meetings, and this one was exceptionally good. The hope of the cause lies with the latent powers of the youth.

There are ninety family tents pitched on the grounds, and eighty-five of them are now occupied. These have been divided into seventeen groups, where family worship is held each morning at eight o'clock. A leader is appointed to take charge of each of these morning services.

Thus several families meet together under a leader and have family worship just as they do in their homes. The Bible is read, songs are sung, prayers are offered, and testimonies borne. There are also six other places where morning worship is held at this hour. So we have at this period twenty-three groups, each engaged in paying their tributes and thanks to their Creator and Redeemer. While the parents are thus praising God and having their devotional exercises, their children have a session all by themselves with a suitable leader.

Thus the whole camp is engaged at one time in praise to God and earth is in harmony with heaven. At eight o'clock there was a meeting held in the large pavilion in the interest of evangelistic canvassing. The principal speaker was A. J. Olson, state canvassing agent, of Marshfield. There has been an increase in numbers and in interest since the beginning of these meetings. Mr. Olson spoke of the great importance of these meetings.

As previously announced a meeting was held in the large pavilion at 9 a. m. Elder Wm. Covert of Marshfield occupied the pulpit. His theme was upon the subject of baptism. The elder said that the individual being baptized is celebrating the death and resurrection of Christ. As Christ died on the cross, so we must die to sin. Just as sure as Christ came out of Joseph's tomb, so will the faithful come forth from their graves in the morning of the resurrection to live with their Lord throughout eternity. But in order to live with Him through eternity we must live with Him now. The elder said in harmony with scripture Christ when He was baptized went up straightaway out of the water and knelt upon the river bank, and now as always before He yielded himself so entirely to God, that the voice of God spoke and said, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." So as we take this step the Lord is well pleased with us. As we are at the water's edge the angels will be witnessing the scene and will bear the glad news up to heaven. At the close of the elder's discourse the congregation went down to the river where a beautiful baptismal scene took place. At the river's side prayer was offered by Elder G. B. Thompson. The administrators were Elder W. S. Shreve of Spring Green, and Elder E. P. Peterson of Baraboo. As the subjects were led down into the water one by one all voices were lifted in a song of triumph. They were then buried in the watery grave in the likeness of Christ's death, and thus raised again in the likeness of His resurrection. Thus baptism is a memorial of Christ's death and resurrection, and will not be likely to be forgotten by those who follow the Lord in this sacred ordinance. The total number baptized were nineteen. As many of the subjects were children, it was a beautiful and precious sight to thus see them follow their Lord in the morning of their life. On account of the baptism the regular 10:30 meeting was postponed to 11 o'clock.

At 11 a. m. a meeting in the pavilion was conducted by Dr. C. P. Farnsworth of the Madison Sanitarium. The following is a brief synopsis of what the doctor said: This institution was created by and is a part of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination of the state of Wisconsin. In it the principles for which the Seventh-day Adventist people stand for are adhered to with reference to health reform in its various lines with reference to diet, dress, treatment, and general care of the sick. This institution is open to the public as well as to the members of the denomination. It was organized and began work two years ago last June at Madison, Wisconsin. This institution received patients suffering from chronic diseases—as rheumatism, dyspepsia, nervous affections, and surgical cases. More than twelve hundred patients have been received, with about ninety per cent cures. One hundred forty-seven major operations were performed without a loss of one patient. This we believe to be due to the fact that before the operation is to be done prayer is offered in the behalf of each patient. A nurses' training school is carried on in conjunction with this work. A three years' course is carried on, with the standard of the New York Association as its guide with reference to studies. The institution uses physiological therapeutics as massage, hydrotherapy, electricity, exercise, diet, and the resources of regular medicine in its treatment of its patients. The nurses are thoroughly skilled in all these sciences. The Sanitarium maintains a nurses' exchange which is at the service of any one who needs a thoroughly trained nurse. Many times there are not near enough nurses to supply the calls on this branch. The institution is conducted on a similar plan to the Battle Creek Sanitarium, and the physicians in charge are regular graduates of the medical schools. To take care of these a corps of twenty nurses is maintained. God has marvelously blessed this institution above all our expectations. The institution is not used as a proselyting instrument, but to teach the truth with reference to health, principles and to bring the patients under a Christian influence while being treated, which is often not the case in the city hospitals.

At 2:30 p. m. a meeting was held in the large pavilion. Evangelist E. C. Gilbert of Boston occupied the pulpit. His theme was "The Sanctuary." The elder quoted from Isaiah the following, "Thy way O God is in the sanctuary." The elder said in every age the Lord has had a specific work to be done for his people. We need to enlarge and broaden our ideas of the sanctuary. Truth is as broad as God Himself, and yet it is so narrow that it will not admit of one single error. I do not believe that the devil's lie is as good as God's truth. God has given us a message which is strictly up-to-date. Jesus said, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life." Where is God's way? It is in the sanctuary. Then Jesus is in the sanctuary. Then He is not in every leaf and flower. If we want to find Jesus, there is only one place that we can find Him, and that is in the sanctuary. Satan knows that the sanctuary is an up-to-date question. When Satan saw that man's mind was being directed to the sanctuary, he made an effort to switch him off, by teaching that God is in everything, thus causing man to lose sight of the place where the Lord can be found. The elder exhorted the brethren that inasmuch as Christ is in the sanctuary, that by the eye of faith they behold Him ministering there as their High Priest.

The seventh meeting of the conference was held in the large pavilion at 4 p. m. Elder Wm. Covert in the chair. Prayer was offered by Elder N. P. Nielsen. Minutes were read and approved. The chairman called for reports of committees. The committee on licenses and credentials made the following report:

Respectfully submitted, Elder C. W. Olds, Elder F. P. Petersen, Elder H. R. Johnson, Elder F. Steubens, Elder H. W. Reed. The report was adopted.

At 8 a. m. Elder John Steinel of Milwaukee spoke in the tent used for Germans. He discussed Peter's experience in being called to labor for the Gentiles. For centuries the Jews had been God's peculiar people. In the time of Christ the disciples were admonished to labor for the lost sheep of the house of Israel. Hence it proved a hard matter for Peter to labor for the salvation of the heathen. Elder Steinel carefully examined the tenth chapter of the book of the Acts. It was noticed that both Peter and Cornelius were especially prepared for this great change in God's dealings with the Gentile world. Cornelius and his house were baptized in the name of the Lord. The whole address was replete with instruction, and gladly received by his hearers.

At 6 p. m. the young people held a meeting in the tent used for young people's meetings. Elder F. P. Petersen of Baraboo conducted the meeting. It was on the whole a very practical talk. Many experiences relative to himself, and how that he was brought to a saving knowledge of the truth were given in a very touching and feeling way. The meeting was enjoyed by all.

The pavilion at 7:45 was fairly well filled to listen to Elder E. W. Farnsworth's last sermon. His subject was, "The Mark of the Beast." The elder showed that the beast brought to view was the ecclesiastical power of Rome. The elder presented scriptures to show that the mark of the beast is spoken of eight times in Revelation. One of these scriptures showed that if man would receive the mark of the beast he would receive the wrath of God. But if he refused to receive the mark of the beast there would be instituted against him a boycott in that he could neither buy or sell. The elder used several illustrations to show what is meant by a mark and sign. The flag of the United States was produced to show that it is a sign of the power of this government. The flag of Great Britain was also presented to show that it is a sign of the power of that nation. To trample upon these flags is to insult the nations which these represent. The mark of the beast is said to be a sign of the power of the ecclesiastical organization known as the papacy. The elder then read several extracts showing that Sunday keeping is a sign of the power of this ecclesiastical organization, and that the United States will enforce it at the peril of the lives of those who oppose it. He warned all against receiving the mark of the beast. It was his most masterly effort since coming upon the grounds.

In attempting to step onto the front of a locomotive he missed his footing and was ground under the wheels, both limbs being severed and his body being otherwise mangled in a horrible manner. At his request very strong stimulants were administered by the physicians to keep him alive until his wife and child could come from Baraboo. They arrived and were recognized, and bidden goodbye by him just ten minutes before he died. The remains were taken to Escanaba, Mich., for interment.

WAS ARRESTED FOR VIOLATING SABBATH

"Captain" Lewis, Who Is Exhibiting the Big Snake, Had Queer Experience.

"Captain" Lewis, who is exhibiting Jumbo, the nine-hundred-year-old snake, is one of the best known naturalists in this country. For the past twenty years he has handled large reptiles of every description and knows their habits thoroughly. He has traveled extensively and one of his experiences in South Africa, some fifteen years ago, is most interesting. "Capt." Lewis was in Johannesburg during a general assembly of the Boers. Not knowing the customs of the people he opened his show in the midst of a caravan of Boer wagons on a plot opposite President Kruger's residence. It also happened he opened on a Sunday. He had been showing but a short time when, under direct orders from President Kruger, soldiers arrested him on three charges—breaking the Sabbath, exhibiting on private grounds, and exhibiting without a permit. He was thrown into the jail and staid there all that hot Sunday. The charges were serious and he feared a long term of imprisonment. Early the next morning, however, he obtained permission to be admitted to bail and went with an interpreter to President Kruger's residence. Here he found the President of the Boer Republic seated on a porch with his Boer farmer friends smoking. Mrs. Kruger was just bringing out a pot of coffee for her husband and friends when he arrived. He told his story, through the interpreter, and explained that he was ignorant of the laws and that he had opened his exhibition thinking it would be educational to the Boers, who would begin their homeward journey the next day. His plea was sufficient and with a little legal delay he was discharged. As far as "Captain" Lewis has been able to discover he is the only man who was ever personally placed under arrest by President Kruger. The big snakes he is now exhibiting are monsters of their kind and will shed their present skin either today or tomorrow.

The price of productive, cheap, well located lands has always gone up but one direction—up—and must, in history repeats itself, go up by leaps and bounds, that outstrip all other save investments.

Facts for the Settler Regarding Cost and Profit of Farming in Western Canada.

In presenting the subject we have to deal with in which prospective settlers and investors are most interested, and in order to answer the questions as to cost and profit from grain growing in western Canada, we copy the following table given out by the manager of the Government Experiment Farm, carefully prepared after years of experience in the cost of producing one acre of wheat, which in this case is $9.64. REMEMBER that these figures are based upon hiring all the work done in connection with the farm. If the settler performs the labor himself then the only outlay in cash would be for seed, twine and thrashing, in which case he would save nearly two-thirds of the cost of production. We have based our figures on an average yield of 35 bushels per acre (which is less than the average for the past 12 years) at a price of only 75c per bushel.

COST OF PRODUCTION OF ONE ACRE OF WHEAT.

Breaking the prairie sod, $3.00
Harrowing, .20
Seed wheat, 1 1/4 bushels at $1.00, 1.25 per bushel, .25
Sowing, .25
Cutting, binding, including twine, 1.25
Shocking, .25
Thrashing at 6c per bushel, 2.10
Hauling to market, 2c per bu., .70
Interest on $10—cost of one acre of land, .60
One year's taxes on one acre of land, .04

Total cost of production one acre, $9.64

35 bushels of wheat per acre at 75c, $26.25

Net profit per acre, $16.61

The cost of production the second year will be reduced to $7.99 per acre, inasmuch as second plowing can be done for $1.25 per acre instead of $3.00 for sod breaking.

The above figures extended over 640 acres will give the following remarkable result:

640 acres, 35 bushels per acre being 22,400 bushels, at 75c per bushel, $16,800.00

Cost of production at $9.64 per acre, 6,169.60

One year's net profit, $10,630.40

Original cost of land $10 per acre, 6,400.00

Leaving a net profit of, $4,230.40

The land has paid for itself. You have your $4,400, the cost of the land, returned to you, all expense of farming paid and a clear gain of $4,230.40. The land is now under a high state of cultivation and worth $15 per acre or $9,000. Join the crowd and go up with us. Extension every Tuesday. Call or write us. Both phones.

One of the oldest adages in the world is this: "It is necessary that he who looks for gain should incur expense." And yet there are still a few merchants who balk at the expense of adequate advertising.

GRAIN TALK.

Internal movements of both grain and live stock during July, as indicated by receipts and shipments at important primary markets, reported to the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics present marked improvements, if compared with similar movements in 1904. At 12 grain centers aggregate cereal receipts during the month were over 20 million bushels heavier than those for a corresponding period in 1904. The large wheat crop, forecast by both Government and commercial estimates, is beginning to be marketed, and at the four leading winter wheat centers the arrivals during July exceeded those of 1904 by over 6 1/2 million bushels. East-bound trunk line movements of grain, as well as cereal receipts at important concentrating points along the borders of the Great Lakes, also bear evidence of this improved condition. No less worthy of note is the heavy increase in live-stock movements, the receipts at five leading markets during July having been nearly a million head in excess of those representing similar arrivals during the preceding year.

At Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, and St. Joseph live-stock receipts during the month of July aggregated 2,538,306 head, of which 604,223 were cattle; 58,129 calves; 1,186,265 hogs; 639,562 sheep and 29,827 horses and mules. A similar total inbound movement in 1904 amounted to 1,554,451 head, and in 1903, to 2,620,046 head. During the first seven months of the current year, 17,778,471 head of live stock were received at these five markets, a number nearly 1,570,000 head greater than that for a like period of 1904, and over 3 million head more than that for 1903. The present year's movement was divided into 4,034,067 cattle, 333,569 calves, 10,215,383 hogs, 4,549,620 sheep and 245,742 horses and mules. As compared with the 1904 figures, gains were made in the arrivals of all five of the classes of animals specified. The number of cars required to handle the inbound movement of live stock at these markets during the first seven months of 1905 totaled 357,020, as compared with 343,106 cars in 1904 and 349,396 cars in 1903.

The aggregate grain receipts at twelve important interior primary markets during the month of July amounted to 50,805,735 bushels, of which 19,977,868 bushels were wheat, 16,115,166 bushels corn, 12,018,449 bushels oats, 1,887,172 bushels barley, and 207,140 bushels rye. A total corresponding inbound movement during a similar month in 1904 aggregated 30,672,398 bushels, being over 20 million bushels less than the 1905 arrivals, due to increases, during the latter year, in the receipts of wheat, corn, oats and barley; a decrease having occurred in the receipts of rye. For the first seven months of the current year 323,335,917 bushels of grain were received at these markets, in contrast with 204,420,531 bushels in 1904. The current year's arrivals were divided into 83,402,318 bushels of wheat, 126,453,592 bushels of corn, 84,092,513 bushels of oats, 26,413,337 bushels of barley, and 3,019,255 bushels of rye. As compared with the 1904 arrivals, gains were made in the receipts of wheat, corn, and oats. Of the interior markets prominently identified with the receipts of grain Chicago led, having received 126,242,777 bushels during the first seven months of the current year. Minneapolis came second, with 51,751,050 bushels, and St. Louis third, with 29,840,905 bushels. Total four arrivals during July at twelve interior primary markets amounted to 1,534,982 barrels, and were slightly in excess of similar receipts in 1904, while the arrivals for the first seven months of the current year, which aggregated 9,008,947 barrels, fell below a like movement in the preceding year by nearly 900,000 barrels.

Receipts of wheat at the four spring wheat markets of Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Duluth, and Chicago during the crop year from August 1 to and including July 31, 1905, reached a total of 146,303,900 bushels, as against similar receipts in 1904 of 149,813,602 bushels, and in 1903 of 108,700,770 bushels. As compared with the 1904 figures losses were sustained at the markets of Milwaukee and Duluth, Minneapolis and Chicago having shown gains. At the winter wheat markets of Toledo, St. Louis, Detroit, and Kansas City the receipts of wheat from July 1, 1905, to July 31, 1905, amounted to 12,290,013 bushels, in contrast with 5,655,239 bushels in 1904, and 5,866,889 bushels in 1903. Increases occurred in all four of the markets specified, if compared with similar movements in 1904.

The east-bound trunk line movement of grain from Chicago and Chicago points during the month of July amounted to 4,757,000 bushels, and was somewhat heavier than a like movement in 1904 or 1903. During the first seven months of the current year 41,333,000 bushels of grain were shipped eastward over the trunk lines from Chicago and Chicago points, as compared with a similar movement in 1904 of 58,273,000 bushels and in 1903 of 53,620,000 bushels. East-bound flour movements during the month totaled 241,976 barrels in 1905, 405,639 barrels in 1904, and 229,830 barrels in 1903, while similar movements for a seven-month period were 2,880,421 barrels in 1905, 4,621,396 barrels in 1904, and 2,663,808 barrels in 1903. During the month of July 103,107 tons of provisions left Chicago and Chicago points east bound over the trunk lines, as compared with a corresponding movement in 1904 of 76,852 tons and in 1903 of 110,823 tons. A similar movement for the first seven months of the present year amounted to 774,902 tons, a total somewhat larger than that representing a like movement in either 1904 or 1903.

The traffic on the Great Lakes continued to be of heavy volume, during July, 9,321,097 net tons of freight having been received at the various ports, in contrast with a similar inbound movement in 1904 of 8,507,192 tons and in 1903 of 7,876,410 tons. During the first seven months of the current year similar receipts amounted to 29,127,418 tons, as against 15,161,455 tons in 1904 and 26,951,018 tons in 1903. The current year's inbound movement was divided into 396,562 tons of flour, 52,123,957 bushels of grain and flaxseed, 6,734,486 tons of coal, 15,618,752 gross tons of ore and minerals, 869,975 M feet of logs and lumber, and 2,347,421 net tons of unclassified freight.

The commerce through the Saint Lawrence canal, at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Ontario, Canada, during July totaled 6,703,760 tons, as against a corresponding movement in 1904 of 5,609,079 tons and in 1903 of 5,279,428 tons. Of the movement for the seventh month of the current year, 5,494,878 tons moved eastward and 1,208,882 tons westward, while of the total movement in both directions 5,873,743 net tons passed through the United States canal and 830,017 net tons through the Canadian canal. Among the items prominent in the eastbound movement may be mentioned 5,044,012 tons of iron ore, 2,701,165 bushels of wheat, and 1,551,251 bushels of grain other than wheat. The principal item in the westbound movement consisted of 940,884 net tons of soft coal. During the present season, to and including July 31, 19,837,204 net tons of freight passed through the canal at Sault Ste. Marie, an amount over 10 1/2 million tons in excess of a similar movement in 1904, and considerably over 2 1/2 million tons heavier than that for 1903. Of the present year's movement, 16,490,111 tons represented an eastbound movement and 3,347,093 tons a westbound movement, while of the freight passing in both directions, 16,689,042 tons moved through the United States canal and 3,148,162 tons through the canal in Canadian territory.

GALLEY 5 PRESS COMMENT.

Superior Telegram: Grover Cleveland isn't saying much about the peace treaty—and Alton B. Parker is equally reticent.

Exchange: Is it any worse to play poker for a stake than to toss to see who pays for the dinner?

Marquette Eagle-Star: It used to be said that the old Co. I team could not be beaten. But then it is an honor to be floored by the "Varsity."

Oshkosh Northwestern: Just because the game season has opened it is to be hoped that none of our hunters will attempt to take a shot at belated straw hats.

Milwaukee News: There are indications that the primary election-day will see the purpose for which it was originally urged—smashing "the machine" and ousting "the boss."

Milwaukee Sentinel: The best natured man will in time become weary of serving as a "human punching bag" and he is likely to take an active part in the performance when that time comes.

Chicago Record-Herald: In Houston, Texas, "male persons" are forbidden by ordinance to make good eyes. The Houston city fathers are too gallant to suggest that "female" persons ever need imprisonment for that offense.

Chicago Tribune: The same public that eagerly welcomed the treaty of peace between Russia and Japan appears to be fearful lest something may happen to prevent the battle between Britt and Nelson.

Exchange: Half, or less, of the $60,000,000 spent annually in "improving" the roads of this country might be spent to much better advantage in sending all the highway commissioners on an educational trip to Europe, where the people know how to make and maintain public roads.

Oshkosh Northwestern: The Milwaukee Free Press wants someone to remember that there is to be a city election before the next state election. And to tell the truth it would seem that District Attorney McGovern has been bearing this fact in mind, until it has warped his better judgment.

Evening Wisconsin: By no technicality can it be made to appear, in the light of this devoted setting forth of the facts, that Mr. Pfister failed to account for a penny of the money entrusted to him by the Rendering company. Evidently the indictment for larceny as alleged brought in against him by the grand jury falls to the ground, and it will probably never come to trial.

Exchange: Some indiscreet utterances on the part of certain members of the notorious Quantrell band have served to awaken Kansas people to the fact that the members of this band are still under indictment for murder, and suits may be pressed against such of them as can be found among the living. Talk is sometimes cheap and sometimes costly, and the drunken boast made which started Kansas blood boiling, is likely to fall into the latter class.

Milwaukee Free Press: Governor Vardaman of Mississippi is making as the issue of his campaign for Mr. McLaure's seat in the United States senate the repeal of the fifteenth amendment and the acceptance by the south of any loss of members of congress which the disfranchisement of the negroes would entail. Vardaman belongs to a class in the south, not as large as it is noisy, that would restore slavery if it could.

Too Many Planks. Green Bay Gazette: State senator McGilvray, who aspires to the shoes about to be discarded by Senator-elect La Follette has not been an apt pupil although a devout disciple of the leader of the reform faction of the republican party in Wisconsin. The senator is out with a many-planked platform on which he proposes to run for governor, provided he decides in the end to make the race. Governor La Follette, when he came to the front as a successful candidate for governor, had one predominant plank which he presented to the people. Like the astute leader and politician that he is, he recognized that the people like a change and with each succeeding campaign he advanced a new plank and made it the issue of his fight. In this way he "bunched his hits" and made them tell in a winning way, so far as votes are concerned. But the Black River Falls statesman has a platform composed of so many planks that he stands a very good chance of getting lost on it.

As to Street Signs. Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The Oshkosh Northwestern is agitating the question of street signs and calls attention to the fact that in progressive cities, where cement sidewalks are being built, at corners the names of the streets are pressed in the soft concrete. The suggestion is a good one and is worthy of consideration here in Fond du Lac. Although Fond du Lac has signs on every street, at the present time, there is a permanency about a sign in a cement walk that gives it a special value. A large number of cement walks have been built in this city during the past year and the good work is going to continue right along until all the old plank sidewalks will have disappeared from all the better residence districts. Under these conditions it would seem that now would be an opportune time to agitate this more approved method of establishing permanent signs. The best is none too good for Fond du Lac.

Equitable Scandal Inquiry. Chicago Inter Ocean: The legislative inquiry into the Equitable insurance scandal began yesterday. The hearings will be public. The old line insurance companies of the United States, on last January 1, had 7,395,646 policies in force, calling for the ultimate payment of $10,942,703,589, or more than ten times the national debt. Nearly eleven billion dollars is what the American people have at stake in these institutions, and they are adding to that stake at the rate of more than two billion dollars a year. With a fair allowance for men who hold more than one policy, it is safe to say that one American family in every fifteen is directly and vitally interested in the integrity of the vast system which these companies represent. Nearly one half of this interest is in the Equitable, the Mutual Life and the New York Life. In the light of these simple facts it is plain that these companies are not mere private business enterprises. They cannot be treated as such. They directly affect more citizens than even the national banking system. Therefore the demand on the representatives of the state of New York, who are to lay hands on the affairs of these companies is: "Be thorough. Be unrelenting. Be just!"

The Death of Summer. La Crosse Chronicle: Is there one among us to whom the death of summer does not carry an indelible story of unutterable pathos? It may be that nothing has come to change the bright promise of our lives. Love and hope are with us still. We know the rich beauty of the coming autumn. We understand perfectly that there will be glorious days and soft, beautiful evenings for a month or two to come. And we have visions of the farther future bringing again the easy fireside, the dazzling ballroom and the cheer within that defies the cold without. And yet the first fall of leaves, the first stark twig and the touch of brown in the fields bring with them the melancholy of death, the sharp pain of regret that all the marvelous beauty in which we have reveled for months must pass. For the beauty of the summer is an unceasing marvel to us all. It is not merely the youth and maiden that sail their boat on northern lakes or search the shadows of the primeval forest or drink the salt air of the coast in idleness that know it. Even the one whose only relaxation lies in sitting on his lawn and watching the silent stars and the child of the flat or tenement whose only outdoor beauty lies at the end of the car ride, have learned to feel the throbbing heart of summer and know there is a void in life as summer dies. Every tree and every shrub has become our friend, has shared with us the joy of living. Every star that has peeped at us out of the summer night has come to be our comrade and our confidant. Even every vagrant breeze has been the sympathetic messenger of our dreams and hopes, bearing them silently and secretly to the wide, unknowable world without.

publican party in Wisconsin. The senator is out with a many-planked platform on which he proposes to run for governor, provided he decides in the end to make the race. Governor La Follette, when he came to the front as a successful candidate for governor, had one predominant plank which he presented to the people. Like the astute leader and politician that he is, he recognized that the people like a change and with each succeeding campaign he advanced a new plank and made it the issue of his fight. In this way he "bunched his hits" and made them tell in a winning way, so far as votes are concerned. But the Black River Falls statesman has a platform composed of so many planks that he stands a very good chance of getting lost on it.

As to Street Signs. Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The Oshkosh Northwestern is agitating the question of street signs and calls attention to the fact that in progressive cities, where cement sidewalks are being built, at corners the names of the streets are pressed in the soft concrete. The suggestion is a good one and is worthy of consideration here in Fond du Lac. Although Fond du Lac has signs on every street, at the present time, there is a permanency about a sign in a cement walk that gives it a special value. A large number of cement walks have been built in this city during the past year and the good work is going to continue right along until all the old plank sidewalks will have disappeared from all the better residence districts. Under these conditions it would seem that now would be an opportune time to agitate this more approved method of establishing permanent signs. The best is none too good for Fond du Lac.

Equitable Scandal Inquiry. Chicago Inter Ocean: The legislative inquiry into the Equitable insurance scandal began yesterday. The hearings will be public. The old line insurance companies of the United States, on last January 1, had 7,395,646 policies in force, calling for the ultimate payment of $10,942,703,589, or more than ten times the national debt. Nearly eleven billion dollars is what the American people have at stake in these institutions, and they are adding to that stake at the rate of more than two billion dollars a year. With a fair allowance for men who hold more than one policy, it is safe to say that one American family in every fifteen is directly and vitally interested in the integrity of the vast system which these companies represent. Nearly one half of this interest is in the Equitable, the Mutual Life and the New York Life. In the light of these simple facts it is plain that these companies are not mere private business enterprises. They cannot be treated as such. They directly affect more citizens than even the national banking system. Therefore the demand on the representatives of the state of New York, who are to lay hands on the affairs of these companies is: "Be thorough. Be unrelenting. Be just!"

The Death of Summer. La Crosse Chronicle: Is there one among us to whom the death of summer does not carry an indelible story of unutterable pathos? It may be that nothing has come to change the bright promise of our lives. Love and hope are with us still. We know the rich beauty of the coming autumn. We understand perfectly that there will be glorious days and soft, beautiful evenings for a month or two to come. And we have visions of the farther future bringing again the easy fireside, the dazzling ballroom and the cheer within that defies the cold without. And yet the first fall of leaves, the first stark twig and the touch of brown in the fields bring with them the melancholy of death, the sharp pain of regret that all the marvelous beauty in which we have reveled for months must pass. For the beauty of the summer is an unceasing marvel to us all. A ROUND HOUSE BEFORE WINTER

ST. PAUL COMPANY WILL BUILD
HERE THIS FALL.

LARGE, MODERN STRUCTURE

Will Have Eleven Engine Stalls, Machine Shop, Office and Store Room.

Before, cold weather this fall the present partially wrecked and dilapidated little roundhouse of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad company here will be replaced by a new and modern structure with eleven engine stalls, a goodly sized and well-equipped machine shop, a stationary boiler and engine room, a finely furnished office and a store room, large enough for the entire stock of supplies. A new house has been wanted for years but for various reasons the erection has been delayed. The wreck of some weeks ago made it necessary for the company to expend a considerable sum in repairs, and rumors of a new building have since been heard. During the last week it has been reported that representatives of the company had attempted to buy land to the southeast of the present roundhouse, that is between the Davis Junction branch of the St. Paul line and the Afton branch of the North-Western, but no foundation to these can be discovered.

Located to the West
It is now known the company has decided to build to the west of the present structure. The new house will be modern and better fitted to the amount of work done here. If a more satisfactory site could have been secured a larger building containing fifteen or twenty instead of eleven stalls would have been erected. At present twenty-eight engines are handled here every day, seven of these being at the roundhouse continuously, while between fifteen and sixteen lay over every Sunday. But five can be accommodated in the house now and the remaining number must be left on sidetracks. With the new house the week-day work could be well taken care of, but several locomotives will necessarily be left outside each Sunday. It is possible that the road would arrange to handle thirty locomotives each day when the new house is up and this would necessitate an increase in the force of workmen.

No Other Changes
The plans for the new house are now being drawn in Milwaukee and it is believed that many excellent features and an almost entirely new equipment are called for. The machine shop will be large and the latest and most modern machinery will be installed. The boiler and stationary engine room will greatly exceed in size the present room and an engine of greater horse-power will be used. The house will occupy a site to the west of the one now used, but its exact location is still a matter of supposition to all but the officials of the road. The coal sheds, water tank, cinder pit, turn-tables and tracks will not be moved.

YOUNG PICKERING BROUGHT IN COURT

Boy Who Was Cnught in the Scofield
Market Will Probably Plead Guilty.

Willie Pickering, aged sixteen, whose widowed mother resides on South Main street, appeared in municipal court this afternoon to answer to the charge of feloniously entering the meat market of William Schofield at No. 18 North Main street last evening and taking change from the money drawer. He waived examination and intimated that he would plead guilty to the charge, but the district attorney, not being in the city a petition to that effect could not be offered and granted. The trial was set for Sept. 14 but it is probable that the plea will be entered and sentence passed tonight or tomorrow. In the meantime the young man's bail was set at $500 and he expected to be able to find signers for his bonds. Edward Behrendt, who lives near the Empire hotel, heard a noise as of breaking glass which seemed to come from the alley in the rear of the butcher-shop late last night and subsequently saw a young man pacing up and down and peering out anxiously upon the street. He informed Officer Morrissey of the circumstance as the latter reached that portion of his beat and he made an examination and discovered that the rear window had been broken. By this time Officer Champion had arrived on the scene and the two entered the store together. In the rear room Officer Champion chanced to kick aside an old sheepskin robe and disclosed to view the marauder. They were seeking, lying on the floor and pretending to be asleep. He was unarmed and made no resistance. The stolen money, amounting to less than a dollar, was found in his pockets. The young man had worked on the streets until recently when he procured employment at a laundry. He was also suspected of a small theft committed two nights ago.

For Eternal Youth.
To remain over young banish from your mind all thoughts of trouble and sorrow, all ugly thoughts. Do not harbor envy, jealousy, revenge or malice. In fact, try to love your neighbor as yourself. You will find in holding happy, healthful and helpful thoughts that the lines and wrinkles will disappear and beauty will reign instead.—Exchange.

Hydraulics.
"It's wonderful," said Uncle Altes Sparks, "to see what can be done with water power these days. I know a man over in the next county, the sturdiest man that ever lived, but his wife can get anything she wants from him by doing a little judicious weeping."

HAS RETIRED FROM PROFESSION OF LAW

Edward H. Peterson Closes His Office in Hayes Block to Engage in Flat-Book Business.

Edward H. Peterson closed his law office in the Hayes block yesterday and will devote his time up to the closing up of the flat-book business in Walworth county in which he has become interested, and the work of perfecting the organization of a stock company which is to take up this line of business in Wisconsin and neighboring states. Two other Janesville men have become interested in the enterprise and it is expected that on or about January 1 a draughting department will be opened up in this city. Eventually a number of experts are to be employed in this central office with a corps of eight or ten men in the field, so that plat-books and wall maps for a number of cities, counties, and lakes can be handled at the same time. Ultimately it is the intention to establish branch offices in Michigan, Minnesota, and elsewhere as circumstances warrant. If the present plans are realized a permanent business will be established with headquarters in Janesville, and Mr. Peterson will devote his entire attention to its management.

A clergyman who was out walking one Sunday came across some boys who were playing baseball in a vacant lot. Going up to one of them who had just been struck out he said: "Young man, don't you know that it is wrong to play baseball on Sunday? What would your father say if he knew about it?" "You'd better ask him," was the reply; "he's playing shortstop."—Harper's Weekly.

CARNIVAL QUEEN TO BE CROWNED

THE CEREMONY WILL TAKE PLACE
THIS EVENING AT SEVEN.

FLORAL PARADE ELABORATE

Miss Nellie Quirk Was Chosen the Queen After a Long Contest—
The Vote Was Large.

This evening between half-past six and half-past seven will occur the crowning of the Queen of the Eagles' Carnival, Miss Nellie Quirk. The ceremony will be a pretty and impressive one and will doubtless attract thousands to witness this culmination of the carnival sport. The Queen will be attended by her maids of honor and will be escorted by her loyal subjects—the Eagles. The automobile and flower parade will add zest to the event and with the electric lights, the arches, the bands, it will be a pretty scene.

Lively Contest

The vote for the Queen was one of the warmest contests that has been held in Janesville for some years. When the bulletin board was placed in front of the Myers house at six o'clock last evening Miss Winans led with Miss McManus second, Miss Quirk third and Miss Buob fourth. There were other names on the list but they were so far behind the leader it was quickly seen they could not be classed as possibilities. Just before eight the voting became lively. Men slipped up and dropped envelopes containing large checks in and five, ten and twenty-dollar bills found place in the box. Owing to the fact some of the outside boxes had not been collected the voting time was extended until five minutes past eight.

The Count

The envelopes were then taken all sealed and opened by a committee of four, none of them Eagles or relatives of the candidates, and counted. Miss Nellie Quirk was the winner, receiving 31,625 votes; Miss Rose McManus was second, with 13,144; Miss Buob third with $200, and Miss Winans fourth with 4,500. The crowds which had surrounded the bulletin board enthusiastically cheered the announcement. Miss Quirk had won and seemed much pleased. Miss Quirk will choose her maids of honor and will appear in the coronation parade tonight at the head of the flower pageant.

An Early Start

The coronation and flower parade will occur this evening. The procession will form on South Main street at six-thirty. After parading up Milwaukee street and back the coronation ceremonies will take place on the raised platform of the Animal exhibit at Milwaukee and bluff streets. Members of the Beloit and Janesville Automobile clubs have promised to be in the line of march with their machines and the scene should be a pretty one.

Railroad Coal-Bins Full.

Appleton Crescent. For months the Wisconsin railroads have been preparing for the great coal strike, which they have had definite information would take place April 1, next. When word came that there would be another great strike in the coal district steps were at once taken by every road in the country to stock up with coal, as a long, hard fight, is expected. Some of the railroads failed to secure enough coal before the last strike, and as a consequence the cost of operation became enormous. A long, hard winter increased the combustion and the roads were forced to put up with poorer grades of fuel. They do not intend that such a situation should ever exist again if it can possibly be helped. Consequently they have been buying every ounce of coal obtainable, and utilizing every little nook and cranny that would hold coal. Every bin in every shed is heaped high with bituminous coal, and when the strike does come the railroads for one will be prepared. This stocking up with coal will add strength to the mine owners' position. Their heaviest customers satisfied, the public may get along as well as it can as regards fuel. Therefore, capital will be prepared to stand a long siege at labor's hands.

Was Fined $25: On a complaint preferred by Mrs. Ida Jackson and having reference to a sister, Daisy Terrell, Amos Shoemaker was summoned to municipal court this afternoon to answer to the charge of fornication. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $25 and costs amounting to $2.80. Daisy Terrell was brought in court late this afternoon and fined $25 and costs. In default of payment she was taken to the county jail to serve a 30-day sentence.

Southern Italians become morose, and almost murderous, in long continued rain. It seems to bring all the had in them to the surface. EVANSVILLE FAIR WAS SUCCESSFUL

CLOSES A GOOD WEEK OF ENTERTAINMENT TODAY.

THE EDUCATIONAL EXHIBIT

This is a New Attraction, and Caused Considerable Attention Among the Visitors.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Sept. 8.—Despite the fact that Janesville has been holding a street carnival all this week the Evansville fair has been more than good. It is not as big a total as last year, but fully ten thousand people have paid their admissions since the fair opened on Tuesday last. Yesterday was the big day and the races, free attractions and good-natured fun kept everyone good natured.

Today's Exhibits

This morning there was a stock parade in which fine specimens of Shorthorns, Polled Angus, Herefords and Jersey cattle were paraded by the grand stand and received their share of the merited applause. This afternoon there are two races going on and the band is giving an elaborate musical program. The free circus, the Aristo Troupe of head balancers, the trapeze performers, the Northwest clowns, and the comical gladiators, have all been pleasing. A miniature railway has amused the little people and the regular paid exhibits have been above the average.

Educational Exhibit

A new feature was brought to the public notice this year in an educational exhibit. There were fifteen classes entered—the four high school and academy classes, the eight grades of the lower schools and three classes from the rural schools. This work comprised nearly a third of the entries of the exhibit and created considerable comment.

BURR OAK Burr Oak, Sept. 7.—Miss Orrie Hoague who has been sick in bed a Letter to Mr. John Jones, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: You sell a good many things by the gallon. Being a decent man, you give full measure.

You know what we mean: you know that short weight and short measure are common among—well, we hope there are no short measures in your town.

There are, though. Ribbons and laces and trimmings, sold by the "dozen," measure nine or ten yards. There is no complaint, because "they all do it." You have the same plague in your goods—nearly everybody, canned or bottled, cheats in the quantity. Almost nobody gives full weight in a factory package!

We are one of the almost nobodies. We sell paint, by the gallon, to paint your house; and our gallon is just the same size as yours that you measure vinegar with—231 cubic inches.

Good paint too—Devoe lead-and-zinc—takes fewer gallons than mixed paint and wears twice as long as lead-and-oil.

You own a house. That's why we are writing to you. Yours truly,

A policeman noticed a big crack in one of the walls of the building, which was occupied for various business purposes. He gave the alarm and ordered everyone out of the structure. Pedestrians were warned not to go near the place, but many paid no attention to the order.

MALARIA UNDERMINES THE HEALTH

When the germs of malaria enter the blood the entire health is affected, and if the blood is not purified of these germs and microbes, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Liver Spots, Chills and Fever, Boils, Aches and Pains, and a great variety of troubles manifest themselves, and soon the entire system is undermined, leaving the sufferer a prey to a most miserable, weak and nervous condition.

913 W. Market St., Louisville, Ky.

For several years I suffered with Chills and Fever, caused by Malaria in my system, and each summer for several years I would have a relapse. Finally my physician prescribed S. S. S. I took a few bottles; this was about six years ago. It entirely cured me, and I have never been troubled since. I am sure no other medicine could have given me so complete and immediate relief, and I cannot speak too highly of S. S. S. My partner in business is now taking S. S. S. for an ailment of the skin, and a general run-down condition of the system, and although he has taken but one bottle, already he complains of better health.

I. S. HOPPE.

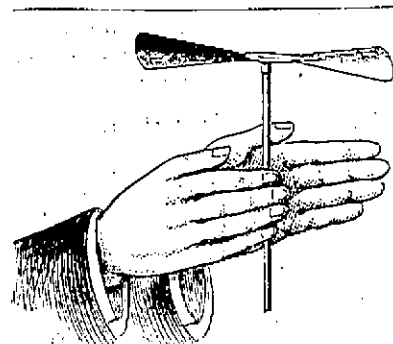

S. S. S. counteracts and drives all the poison from the blood and builds up the system by its fine purifying qualities and tonic effects. It strengthens every part, increases the appetite, helps the stomach and digestion, and by supplying the body with rich, pure blood, cures Malaria and all its disagreeable ailments. Unlike most blood medicines S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It does not contain a particle of mineral of any kind to disagreeably affect the stomach, digestion and bowels, but by cleansing and strengthening the blood, puts every part of the body in healthy condition. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired without charge.

THE YOKE

A Romance of the Days When the Lord Redeemed the Children of Israel from the Bondage of Egypt

By Elizabeth Miller

CHAPTER IV.

THE PROCESSION OF AMEN. HEBES DIOSPOLIS, the hundred gated, was in holiday attire. The great suburb to the west of the Nile had emptied her multitudes into the solemn community of the gods. Besides her own inhabitants there were thousands from the entire extent of the Thebaid and visitors even from faraway Syria and Philae. It was an occasion for more than ordinary pomp. The great god Amen was to be taken for an outing in his ark.

For once the magnificence of the wondrous city of the gods was set down from its usual pre-eminence in the eyes of the wondering spectator, and the vastness of the multitude usurped its place. The bari of Kenekes, seeking to round the island of sand lying near the eastern shore opposite the village of Karnak, met a solid pack of boats. The young sculptor took in the situation at once and, putting about, forced a landing farther to the north. There he made a portage across the flat bar of sand to the arm of quiet water that separated the island from the eastern shore. Crossing, he dismissed his eager and excited boatmen and struck across the moon heated valley toward the temple. The route of the pageant could be seen from afar, clearly outlined by humanity. It extended from Karnak to Luxor and, turning in a vast loop at the Nile front, counterbalanced the dromos and ended at the tremendous white walled temple of Amen. Between the double ranks of sightseers there was but chariot room. The side Kenekes approached sloped sharply from the dromos toward the river, and the rear-most spectators had small opportunity to behold the pageant. The multitude here was less densely packed. Kenekes joined the crowd at this point.

Here was the catulle of Thebes. Kenekes slackened his pace when he recognized the character of these spectators, and, after hesitating a moment, he hung the flat wallet containing the message around his neck inside his kamis and pushed on. Every foot of progress he essayed was snarledly disputed until the rank of the aggressive stranger was guessed by his superior dress, when he was given a moody and ungracious path. But he finally met an immovable obstacle in the shape of a quarrel.

The stage of hostilities was sufficiently advanced to be menacing, and the young sculptor hesitated to ponder on the advisability of pressing on. While he waited several deputies of the constabulary, methodically silencing the crowd, came upon these belligerents in turn and belabored the foremost into silence. The act decided the young man. The feelings of the rabble were now in a state sufficiently warlike to make them forget their ancient respect for class and turn savagely upon him should he show any desire to force his way through their lines. Therefore he gave up his attempt to reach the temple and made up his mind to remain where he was.

At that moment several gorgeous litters of the belated wealthy rained a path to the very front and were set down before the rabble. Kenekes seized upon their advance to proceed also and, dropping between the first and second litter, made his way with little difficulty to the front. With the complacency of a man that has rank and authority on his side, he turned up the roadway and continued toward the temple. He was halted before he had proceeded ten steps. A litter richly gilded and borne by four men came pushing through the crowd and was deposited directly in his path.

But for the unusual appearance of the bearers Kenekes might have passed around the conveyance and continued. Instead he caught the contagious curiosity of the crowd and stood to marvel. The men were stout, black bearded and strong of feature and robed in no Egyptian garb. They were draped voluminously in long habits of brown linen fringed at the hem, belted by a yellow cord with tasseled ends. The sleeves were wide and showed the wrists of a white undergarment. The head-dress was a brown kerchief bound about the brow with a cord, also yellow.

While Kenekes examined them in detail a low, indrawn breath of wonder from the circle of spectators caused him to look at the alighting owner of the litter.

He took a backward step and halted, amazed.

Before him was a woman of heroic proportions, taller, with the exception of herself, than any man in the crowd. Upon her, at first glance, was to be discerned the stamp of great age, yet she was as straight as a column and her hair was heavy and midnight black. Hers was the Semitic cast of countenance, the features sharply chiseled, but without that aggressiveness that emphasizes the outline of a withered face. Every passing year had left its mark on her, but she had grown old not as others do. Here was flesh compromising with age—accepting its majesty, defying its decay—a sublimar assumption of immortality. There was no longer any suggestion of femininity; the idea was dread power and unearthly grace. Of such nature might the sexless archangels partake.

"Holy Amen!" one of the awed bystanders exclaimed in a whisper to his neighbor. "Who is this?"

"A princess from Punt [Arabia]," the neighbor surmised.

"A priestess from Babylon," another hazarded.

"Nay, ye are all wrong," quavered an old man who had been looking at the newcomers under the eaves of the crowd. "She is an Israelite."

"Thou hast a catarrh, old man," was the scornful reply from some one near by. "She is no slave."

"Aye," went on the unsteady voice, "I know her. She was the favorite woman of Queen Neferati Thermuthis. She has not been out of the delta where her people live since the good queen died forty years ago. She must be well nigh a hundred years old. Aye, I should know her by her stature. It is of a truth the Lady Miriam."

"At the sound of his mistress' name one of the bearers turned and shot a sharp glance at the speaker. Instantly the old man fell back, saying, as a sneer of contempt ran through the rabble at the intelligence his words conveyed: "Anger them not. They have the evil eye!"

Kenekes had guessed the nationality of the stranger immediately, but had doubted the correctness of his surmise because of their noble mien. If he suffered any disappointment in hearing proof of their identity it was immediately nullified by the joy his artist soul took in the stately Hebrew woman. He forgot the mission that urged him to the temple, and, permitting the shifting, restless crowd to surround him, he lingered, thinking. This proud disdain must mark his goddess of stone in the Arabian hills, this majesty and power, but there must be youth and fire in the place of this ancient calm.

A porter that stood beside him, emboldened by barley beer and the growing disapproval among the onlookers, cried:

"Ha, by the rage of my fathers, she outshines her masters, the brickmaking huz!"

Kenekes, who towered over the ruffian, became possessed of a sudden and uncontrollable indignation. He picked the man on the head with the knuckle of his forefinger, saying in colloquial Egyptian:

"Hold thy tongue, brawler, nor presume to flout thy betters!"

The stately Israelite, who had taken no notice of any word against her, now turned her head toward Kenekes and slowly inspected him. He had no opportunity to guess whether her gaze was approving, for the crowd about him, grown weary of waiting, had become quarrelsome and was loudly re-senting his defense of the Hebrews. The porter, supported by several of his brethren, was already menacing the young sculptor when some one shouted that the procession was in sight.

Kenekes once more turned toward the temple, walking between the crowds and the marching soldiers, indifferent to the shouts of the spectators, lost in contemplation. But the procession moved more swiftly than he, and the last rank passed him with half his journey yet to complete. Instantly the vast throng poured out into the way behind the rear-most soldier and swallowed up the sculptor in a shifting multitude. For an hour he was hurried and halted and pushed, progressing little and moving much. Before he could extricate himself the runners preceded by the pageant, bearing the great god to his shrine, beat the multitude back from the dromos, and once again Kenekes was imprisoned by the hosts, and once again after the procession had passed he did fruitless battle with a tossing human sea. But when the street had become free he stood before the closed portal of the great temple. The solemn porter scrutinized the young sculptor sharply, but the display of the linen wrapped roll was efficient passport. In a little space he was conducted across the ringing pavements, under the vaulted shadows, into the presence of Lai, high priest to Amen.

He spelled the hieratic writings upon the outer covering of the roll which the young man presented to him and asked with some eagerness in his voice:

"Hast thou traveled with all speed?"

"Scarce eight days have I been on the way. Only have I been delayed a few hours by the crowds of the festival."

"It is well," replied the pontiff. "Wait here while I see what says my brother at On."

He motioned Kenekes to a seat of inflated obou and retired into a curtained recess.

In a few moments the old priest darted into the apartment his withered face working with excitement.

"Go! Go!" he cried. "Eat and prepare to return to Memphis with all speed. Time answer will await thee here tonight at the end of the first watch, and set be upon thee if thou delayest!"

Kenekes, startled out of speech, did obeisance and hastened from the temple.

INSURANCE MEN GIVE UP SECRET

Company Officers Make Money by Selling Securities for Syndicates.

PROFITS FOR TRUST CONCERNS

Testimony Shows Millions of Dollars Are on Deposit, Yielding 2 Per Cent Interest and 20 Per Cent in Dividends on Stock.

New York, Sept. 8.—That the secrets of the insurance business as conducted by America's great companies—the inside workings, ways and policies that heretofore have been spoken of within the four walls of the directors' meeting-rooms—will be revealed in full to the public was plain at the end of Thursday's session of the legislative life insurance investigating committee in this city.

Some remarkable frank acknowledgments by Frederick Cromwell, treasurer of the Mutual Life, were one of the features of the testimony. Mr. Cromwell told how officers of his company added to their incomes by investing in securities and afterward selling these bonds to the company.

The affairs of the Equitable Life Assurance society and the Mutual Life Insurance company held the attention of the legislative investigating committee throughout the day. Nothing particularly new was developed in regard to the Equitable society other than the statement drawn from one of the officers that the society does not know the present whereabouts of Thomas D. Jordan, the former comptroller. It was stated that Mr. Jordan was wanted as a witness, to explain the loan of $685,000 made to the Equitable society by the Mercantile Trust company. It was also stated that James H. Hyde, former first vice-president of the Equitable, later will be called as a witness before the committee.

Seeks to Legalize Transfer.

The revelation was made that in the purchase of the control of the Equitable Life by Thomas F. Ryan from James H. Hyde, Mr. Ryan has serious doubts of the legality of his purchase because of the trust created by the late Henry B. Hyde, and to insure himself against loss got assignments of every kind and description from the beneficiaries of the deed of trust and James H. Hyde to make an irrevocable codicil to his will bequeathing the stock to Ryan. Another agreement to buy back from Mr. Ryan the 501 shares of stock at the same price Mr. Ryan paid for them in the event of Ryan suffering any loss through an attack upon the legality of the purchase. Chief Inquisitor Hughes again demonstrated his purpose to slit to the bottom the affairs of big and little insurance companies. He did not permit the smallest detail to escape and displayed a mastery of the insurance business which astonished expert business men.

Depend on Trust Companies.

The inquiry into the Mutual Life Insurance Company has begun. The testimony drawn from an officer of this company showed that the Mutual controls many trust companies, among them the Morton Trust Company, the Guarantee Trust Company, and the United States Mortgage and Trust Company. On deposit with these companies the insurance company keeps hundreds of thousands of dollars against which it does not draw.

It was explained that the prosperity of the trust companies meant the prosperity of the insurance company. The insurance deposits draw 2 per cent interest and the trust companies pay as high as 20 per cent dividends on the par value of the stock, or 5 per cent on the market value.

Frederick Cromwell, treasurer of the Mutual Life, said the company had bought securities from the syndicates and received individual profits by selling these bonds to the company. He did not see that there was any impropriety in the officers going into syndicates when the company had gone in first.

LIFE STORY ON A $1,000 BILL

"Last of an Ill-Spent Fortune" Written on the Note.

Washington, Sept. 8.—One of the tellers at the United States treasury, in counting a pile of currency that had come in from a subtreasury, discovered on a $1,000 note some writing that indicated either a tragedy or an attempt at a joke. The inscription was: "The last of an ill-spent fortune," and it was signed with the initials, "C. L. B." and the date "El Paso, 5-8-93."

Noted Confederate Is Dead.

Nashville, Sept. 8.—Dr. Meneses, Sr., one of the best known physicians in the South, is dead at his home here at the age of 83 years. Dr. Meneses was a member of the confederate congress and had been a professor in the medical departments of several Southern colleges.

EXPENSIVE INSTRUMENTS.

Handsome Los Angeles Home Has Piano and Organ Costing Small Fortune.

A piano that, so far as known, is the costliest in the world, was lately placed in the music room of a handsome home in Los Angeles, Cal. It is a concert grand, the case fashioned in Louis XV. style, and heavily enameled in 14-karat gold leaf.

More than two years elapsed between placing the order in New York and its delivery in Los Angeles. The instrument is so exquisitely toned that its bell-like clearness and depth of melody would distinguish it instantly among a score of fine pianos. It cost $10,000.

The case is the work of a noted New York master of decorative art. The face of the lid is adorned with an allegorical scene—Apollo with his harp, surrounded by goddesses and cupids, central among them being the face of the owners' son and heir from studies made when the boy was two years of age.

A total factory has about completed for the same home a $15,000 organ, the pipes of which will be gold enameled, like the piano. An electrical attachment will make possible the playing of both organ and piano from either the first or second floor of the house. The attachments will be connected also with "organ chimas" on the open staircase, and with an "echo" above the stairs.

HOW TUNNEL WAS COOLED

Intense Heat of Idaho Bore Moderated by Hydraulic Spraying of Walls.

The boring of the Ox Bow tunnel in Idaho is one of the great engineering feats of the age. The Payette river at this point makes a loop, and by putting a tunnel through 1,200 feet, the river bed is left dry for two and a quarter miles. It is the intention to mine the river bed for gold, reports the Scientific American.

Ordinarily the putting through of this tunnel would be a simple matter, but at 300 feet from the upper end and 250 feet from the lower hot water was struck. The heat at first was from 95 to 105 degrees, increasing as the work progressed to 122 degrees at the hottest point. Different fans and blowers were experimented with to cool the air in the tunnel, but without success until the superintendent of the work thought of spraying the walls of the tunnel with water pumped from the river.

Very simple pumping apparatus and common garden sprays were used with complete success. The tunnel is 25 feet wide and nine feet high, and the flow of hot water amounted to 75 miners' inches. The cold water cooled the hot water, and it was pumped out with common pumps.

MAKES PEACOCKS SILENT.

Dealer Furnishes Lovers of the Birds with Those That Do Not Cry.

Peacocks for the lawns of country houses are becoming more popular every year. There are dealers who make a specialty of these decorative birds. There is even one dealer, says the Philadelphia Bulletin, who sells noiseless peacocks, for which he gets readily $75 apiece.

The one objection to the peacock is his hoarse and piercing cry. The dealer in silent peacocks operates on the birds' throats in such a way as to quiet them forever. The operation is not painful nor perilous, and yet it increases the peacock's value fourfold.

A good peacock can be bought for $15. The bird eats corn and barley. Its actual living expenses are not great, but it is apt at any time to die. The peacock in this matter of sudden death is almost the monkey's equal.

They who keep a dozen or more peacocks have among them always a few plain little peahens. Hens sell at a lower rate than cocks, for they are not so beautiful.

Her eggs are large and brown, and when she is nesting the peahen must be fed by hand.

Once men fought for abstractions, now they fight for subtractions.

You cannot blame the world for being weary of a religion that is dreary.

There is something lacking in the life when the funeral writes "Rites" over it.—Henry F. Cope, in Chicago Tribune.

ILLINOIS COAL MINERS WILL RETURN TO WORK

Operators and Miners Reach Agreement on Question of Employing Men as Shotfired.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 8.—Operators of the Chicago & Alton mining sub-district secured a victory Thursday night when settlement was had of the controversy over employment of shotfired, which has lasted since the new shotfiring law became effective July 1. The operators had contended that shots could be fired with two pounds or less of powder and a special investigating committee of the miners' executive board sustained this contention.

Under the provision of the new law it is not necessary for the operators to employ shotfired in mines where not more than two pounds of powder is used. Miners in the Chicago & Alton sub-district contended that more than two pounds were needed. Experiments were conducted in all mines of the sub-district by the miners' committee, which reported that operators were right in their contention. The agreement entered into is effective until April 1, 1906. Eighteen hundred men resume work next Monday as a result of the agreement.
